Explanation

We continued in the 2018 year with conducting research, education, and outreach related to the destruction of the all three World Trade Center skyscrapers on September 11, 2001. Some of the highlights included: Launching a program of outreach to the engineering profession called Project Due Diligence, which involves a network of 30+ engineers across the U.S. and around the world giving presentations to engineering groups and conducting outreach at major engineering conferences. Project Due Diligence also includes an online video of the signature presentation by civil engineer Roland Angle and gives engineers the opportunity to engage in discussion regarding the documented shortcomings in the NIST investigation of the World Trade Center building failures. We also continued our education program for the architecture community by providing our various AIA-approved continuing education courses. We continued to oversee our contract with the University of Alaska Fairbanks to conduct finite element computer modeling analysis of the collapse of World Trade Center Building 7, with our focus being to ensure that the researchers possessed the required building information to complete computer simulations of the global collapse of the building. In observance of the 9/11 anniversary, we released a 30-second version of the "9/11 Father Seeks Justice" video, mobilized a second wave of constituent outreach to Congress in support of the Bobby McIlvaine World Trade Center Investigation Act, and mounted a public rally in front of the U.S. Capitol involving 9/11 families and others in the 9/11 community. We also launched a new website in the spring of 2018, allowing for a carefully curated, comprehensive repository of technical articles on the WTC destruction and for more streamlined, frequent, and engaging publication of news and commentary on the subject. We participated with other organizations and individuals in the filing of a petition calling for a grand jury investigation of unprosecuted federal crimes committed at the World Trade Center on 9/11. This resulted in the U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York complying with federal statutes requiring him to present the evidence of explosive controlled demolition of the World Trade Center towers to a special grand jury.
